

Statement of participation

Sourangsu Banerji

has completed the free course including any mandatory tests for:

Studying natural sciences bilingually

How studying Natural Sciences through the medium of Welsh could improve your experience of higher education and your employment prospects.

Issue date: 23 May 2021

www.open.edu/openlearn

This statement does not imply the award of credit points nor the conferment of a University Qualification.
This statement confirms that this free course and all mandatory tests were passed by the learner.

Please go to the course on OpenLearn for full details:

<https://www.open.edu/openlearn/science-maths-technology/studying-natural-sciences-bilingually/content-section-0>

COURSE CODE: CYM_MST_E1

Studying natural sciences bilingually

<https://www.open.edu/openlearn/science-maths-technology/studying-natural-sciences-bilingually/content-section-0>

Course summary

Thinking of studying a Natural Sciences course? Considering studying through the medium of Welsh and want to know what the benefits are? Not sure whether your Welsh is good enough? If you're reading this article, it's quite possible you've thought about these questions. This article aims to answer these questions, and show how studying Natural Sciences through the medium of Welsh could improve your experience of higher education and improve your employment prospects.

Learning outcomes

By completing this course, the learner should be able to:

As a result of studying these materials you will have a better idea of how studying Natural Sciences through the medium of Welsh could improve your experience of higher education and improve your employment prospects.

Completed study

The learner has completed the following:

Section 1

Studying natural sciences bilingually